New year, new start, new goals, new logo

Today is a special day at Hornton Primary School. After decades of using our crest logo adorned with a quill and the three H's, we launch our new modern, clean, crisp HPS tree logo. Our very special thanks to Anthony Fowler for his effort in designing our new logo for us.

The launch of our new logo coincides with the start date with our new uniform supplier, Cross Embroidery in Banbury. The Uniform will stay exactly as is it now, with the only difference being that when you need to buy a new jumper, t-shirt or HPS coat, it will have our new logo instead of the old one. There is NO expectation that parents and carers go and buy new uniform just because we have launched a new logo. We are aware that parents and carers will have perfectly good uniform that they want their children to use and we want you to continue to use it. We will gradually phase in the new logo on our uniform. We also appreciate that some parents and carers will pass down older sibling uniform to younger siblings; please continue to do this. It may take a while before every child in school has a new logo on their school jumper or t-shirt, but that's fine with us.

If you do wish to purchase new uniform, please contact Cross Embroidery in Banbury by email or call them and they'll be happy to help. Their website address is <http://www.crossembroidery.com/schoolwear> but at the moment they are in the process of adding our range of uniform to the site and have explained this should be up and running by the middle of next week. You can still order new uniform even though the range is not on the site yet.

Over the course of the next few weeks the governors will be working on their five year strategic plan for the school, once they have agreed what this will look like and how we will implement it, we will share it with you. The launch of our new logo and development of strategic plan is the beginning of a new improvement journey for our school and we can't wait to get started!
